Education

University of Pittsburgh

PhD Cognitive Psychology (expected graduation: Spring 2019)

MS Cognitive Psychology (completed Spring 2016)

University College London

MSc Cognitive & Decision Sciences (graduated 2011 with distinction)

HELP University, Malaysia

BS Psychology (graduated 2009 with first-class honors)

Professional experience

Graduate Student Researcher, University of Pittsburgh (2013–present)

Researcher on various projects investigating causal cognition in humans. Designed, programmed, and ran numerous web and lab-based behavioral experiments. Extensive statistical simulation, modeling, and data analysis. Published and presented findings.

Teaching Fellow, University of Pittsburgh (2015–present)

Teaching research methodology lecture sections (50-60 students), supervising undergraduate students in research projects. Designed and developed interactive web-based tutorials for teaching research methods concepts.

Lecturer, Department of Psychology, HELP University (2012–2013)

Designed/taught courses in research methods, cognitive psychology, and judgment and decision-making. Supervised research and teaching assistants.

Research Assistant, Analysis of the Malaysian Electoral Roll (2012)

Worked with Dr. Ong Kian Ming (PI), currently a Malaysian Member of Parliament, to develop analytical tools for detecting electoral fraud in the Malaysian Electoral Roll.

University of Pittsburgh

Research Methodology (lecture and lab sections)

HELP University

Research Methodology, Cognitive Psychology, Thinking and Deciding, Contemporary Issues in Psychological Research (seminar), Applications of Psychology (seminar)

Selected talks

Cognitive Psychology Brown Bag Series, University of Pittsburgh

September 2017: Does it fit? Proportionality between causes and effects

February 2017: Our patterns of sampling (don't) foreshadow our decisions

March 2016: Causal learning with continuous variables over time

March 2015: Elemental causal learning from transitions

April 2014: Causation from correlation over time

How (ir)rational are we?

Keynote talk. Psychology Colloquium, HELP University (April 2012)

Reasoning about causal changes
